La Unión: Flamenco at the heart of the mines (4 up to 7 hours visit)

* This tour may start in Murcia or Cartagena

Overview:

The first part of the tour will take you to La Unión, located to the southeast of the region between the beaches of the Menor Sea and the Mediterranean Sea where it enjoys a unique and different landscape painted in lead and silver, mixed with brush-strokes of iron, manganese, zinc or pyrite with a lunar aspect. During the panoramic drive within this breathtaking mining area, you will listen to the original flamenco singing style developed during 19th century in this city, which was considered to be a new California at that time. You will also learn how to appreciate this genuine flamenco of the mines as you visit the modernist style Public Market, also known as the Cathedral of the Cante (flamenco singing), where every August the International Festival of the Song of the Mines is held. The most prestigious flamenco festival in Spain. A miner train will take us to the entry of a huge iron mine, where you will experience the inside of the earth. Then we will drive to Portman, the ancient Roman Portus Magnus and will proceed to the Golf resorts, where we will get superb views of Mar Menor, up to the lighthouse of Cabo de Palos, located 98 feet above sea level and built in 1863. From the lighthouse, we will drive to the promenade where you can enjoy a drink facing the coast or try the fish and seafood local specialities in the many restaurants by the fishing port.
